

Book Sales

If you are an SCBWI member, have a children's book you've authored or illustrated, and will be attending the online Fall Conference on September 12-13, 2020, you are qualified to have one title included in the member online book sale during conference weekend. Books must be registered by Monday, August 24, 2020. There are no exceptions to this deadline to ensure books arrive on time. We also cannot sell books by members who are not registered for the virtual conference.

Please note a few pesky but important rules:

- Only members who are registered for the conference may have their books sold in our online store.
- SCBWI rules allow for only one title per non-faculty attendee
- Please follow the "to register" instructions to the letter. You'll find instructions on the BOOK SALES INSTRUCTION link
- Please meet the unbreakable deadline, Monday, August 24, 2020. We want to see your book in our online store!
- Carrie Seidel is our Book Sales Conference Coordinator and your single point of contact. Please direct all questions to her at whispurr\_s@hotmail.com DO NOT send requests directly to BookBar as this creates logistical challenges that may result in your book being excluded from sales.

BookBar

We are thrilled to welcome back BookBar Denver as our online conference bookstore! BookBar Denver is a quaint, brick-walled bookshop & wine bar located on Tennyson Street in west Denver. Please note that the BookBar will only be able to obtain books that are readily available, so some titles may have to be supplied by the author and sold on consignment. These include out of print titles and titles published by some smaller companies (Carrie Seidel will let you know if this is an issue when she confirms the order).

Special note: PLEASE do NOT contact BookBar directly for this event. All inquiries and requests regarding book sales should be sent to the Book Sales Coordinator.
